

ABOUT US

Forex trading, also called foreign exchange or FX trading, is the buying and selling of currencies, like USD/INR or EUR/INR, to profit from exchange rate changes. It's one of the most active markets globally, with around $6.6 trillion traded daily by individuals, companies, and banks. What Is the 90% Rule in Forex? In foreign exchange markets, the 90% rule asserts that 90% of new forex day traders will fail to make money. Some versions are even more specific, claiming that 90% of day traders will lose 90% of their capital within the first 90 days. Forex, or foreign exchange trading, involves buying and selling currencies to profit from fluctuations in exchange rates, a decentralized market where individuals, businesses, and banks exchange currencies.
